MR. DANIELS MODIFIES WIRELESS CENSORSHIP

Official German Reports of Naval Engagements Now Will Be Passed.

Changes in the naval wireless censorship regulations were announced today by Secretary Daniels. A strict interpretation of the regulations as they were made when the government placed naval censors at Sayville and Tuckerton prohibited the censors from passing for publication in the United States the German official statements of if they made reference "to movements or locations of war or other vessels of belligerents."

Passed by British Censor.
This operated to prevent Germany's statement of the result of naval operations being received direct from Germany, although they were received by cable via London after having passed through the British censorship.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador at the direction of his government, made a formal inquiry after the American censors had suppressed the German official account of the sinking of the British cruiser Arabis.

Modification of the Rule.
The regulations as now modified by Secretary Daniels provide: "The restriction as to movements of war or other vessels of belligerents shall not apply to messages received from belligerent shore radio stations."

It applies only to Germany, as Great Britain is using the cable.

The Interviewer Is Fascinated by the Display of "New Cuff Gloves"

Of Kayser Washable Silk.

"I've seen pretty gloves," remarked a friend of mine yesterday, "but the new Cuff Gloves at Kann's are simply irresistible."

"I'll have to see them," was my decision, so when I passed the Glove Department today I stopped to inquire.

"Oh, yes, madam," smiled the alert little woman behind the counter, "we are showing a wonderful assortment of the 'Cuff Glove'."

Here is a pair with a pair of black cuffs, very smart, with broad black embroidery at the back—and here is a new floral design in white with black outline and Paris Point back—quite chic; this dainty design of tiny flowers in black and white is also a favorite; and, oh, I want you to see this pair with the new rose cuff and clasp, with black piping, isn't it pretty? Have you seen the very striking new black and white striped ruffles that edge the cuff of this pair?

"There," she spread them all before me, "which do you like best?"

I agree with my friend, they are very lovely, at only $1.00 and $1.50 pair, and you know how well Kayser silk washes and what splendid service it gives—so I'm sporting a new pair of "Cuff Gloves" and my friends, after asking, "Where to get them," are doing the same—How about you?

Trimmed Hats

For Spring Wear. Right at the beginning of the season, too. A new shipment that has arrived from the best New York millinery houses.

We determined to make this line of hats we carry even more celebrated than they have been in the past. We ask your judgment tomorrow as to how well we have succeeded when you view the new models just received.

Small shapes of fine quality hemp, some trimmed with imitation gaura, or new wings that set up on the hat; others that lie flat; one style has a bird with wings outspread flat on top of the crown of a small, jaunty turban.

Hats that a demure little Watteau shepherdess would delight to wear. Another style is one of the straight brim sailors, prettily trimmed with small flowers and ribbons.

There are many, particularly those trimmed with imitation gaura and other feathers, that are in solid colors; others show most original combinations, such as purple and American beauty, light terra cotta and dark blue, etc. Other shades are rose, brown, blue, black, etc.
